Testing Tools:-

There are a large number of tools in the market used to do User Acceptance Testing; some of them are mentioned below:

Fitness Tool - It is a valuable Java tool as a testing engine. It helps to create tests and record all their results for a test in a table. Users of the tool enter formatted input and tests created automatically. Then execute tests, and the output is returned to the user.

Watir - Watir is a toolkit to automate browser-based tests during a process of UAT. Ruby is a programming language for inter-process communication between Ruby and Internet Explorer.
